Can a fasting person use lip-ice and Vaseline while fasting? And can he smell vicks or apply vicks around the nose?

Question:

- a) In a certain family brothers have not been on speaking terms for the past three years. There is no interest or intervention from the mother to set things straight
- b) There are grownup children and they too are now not going to the house of the grandmother as they do not feel comfortable because their father is being ignored
- c) One brother divorced his wife because of his involvement with another woman. Later on the two got married. Yet the mother has accepted this other woman into her house This has caused major discord amongst the children as they are not prepared to accept and be on terms with a woman who has torn the family apart.
- d) Shariah also states that Jannah lies at the feet of a mother - how do you reconcile the relationship with a mother who insists that if the one son is not happy with the wrong doings of the other son then he can please himself and stay away from her house.

Please advise us in this regard?

Recently a lady who is an academic from overseas delivered a lecture here in PE. In this lecture she mentioned that the belief that a woman was created from the rib of man is a Christian belief and is not true. She also states that the Abu Hureira (RA) who narrates the hadith where this is mentioned made a mistake and that Hazrat Ayesha (RA) corrected him. How far is this true?
